Continuity of activities during pandemics

While the world responded to Covid-19, countries that were already in need of humanitarian assistance before the pandemic had to fire-fight multiple frontlines – with insufficient resources – to ensure sufficient healthcare access for its citizens.

This session:

- » Presents and discusses how a medical humanitarian organization ensured the continuity of their operations during the pandemic
- » Launches the discussion of structural changes needed within the humanitarian sector to prepare and respond to a global threat like the Covid-19 pandemic.

Organized by

Dr. Diego Vega, Hanken School of Economics, Humanitarian Logistics and Supply Chain Research Institute (HUMLOG Institute), Finland

Félicia Saïah, Hanken School of Economics, Humanitarian Logistics and Supply Chain Research Institute (HUMLOG Institute), Finland
