Grants and Teaching Awards

This page contains information about teaching awards and project funding at Hanken and the development of teaching

All teachers at Hanken must have a basic education in university pedagogy and be offered continuous pedagogical competence development.

✓ Hanken supports its teachers by offering various opportunities for pedagogical training and development in both Swedish and English. More information about pedagogical training can be found in Pedagogical Training for Hanken Teachers (/en/faculty-staff/teaching-lab/pedagogical-training) and Courses and further training (/en/faculty-staff/hanken-workplace/working-environment-and-health/staff-development-awards/courses-and).

Teaching Lab (/en/faculty-staff/teaching-lab) offers training and support for lesson planning, use of digital teaching methods and tools (workshops, seminars, helpdesk sessions, tutorials, instructional videos, etc.)

Award and incentive pyramid for development of teaching at Hanken

Designed to encourage, reward, and publicly acknowledge sustained excellence in teaching at Hanken.

Hanken's reward and incentive pyramid for teaching development aims to encourage, reward, and publicly recognise sustained quality in teaching at Hanken. The different levels also aim to describe and visualise pedagogical knowledge and development among those who teach.

Committed teachers: The first level is about encouraging teachers to become committed to teaching by continuing pedagogical training and professional development. Pedagogical development and engagement can also be related to applying for and receiving project funds to develop course materials and content. Good results in course evaluations also demonstrate commitment and interest in learning.

Merited teachers: is a recognition of the commitment already demonstrated at the bottom level in the context of continued pedagogical and skills development. Hanken rewards successful teaching, research, and teachers.

Excellent teachers: is a recognition and reward of pedagogical; knowledge, collaboration, development, and above all good quality of teaching.

You can find more information on how to apply for awards, project funding and excellent teachers below.

Gold stamp - courses that obtained top evaluations

In addition, annual courses that received high course evaluations in the previous academic year are noted:

- at least 4 in average on all three questions included in the course evaluation form, as well as
- teacher response to the feedback received in the evaluation form, and
- at least 35% response rate to the evaluation

=> the course is mentioned in the study guide and published on the web
